

HuffPost Arts' Haiku Reviews is a weekly feature where invited critics review exhibitions and performances in short form. Some will be in the traditional Haiku form of 5x7x5 syllables, others might be a sonnet or a string of words together. This week Peter Frank, George Heymont and Laurence Vittes give quick takes on visual arts, theatre and classical music from Austrian nightlife and "Hair" for the ADD crowd to rockin' cellos and digitizing your vinyl. Is there a show or performance that you think people should know about? Write a Haiku with a link and shine a light on something you think is noteworthy too.

MY HAIKU REVIEW: Kitty Winn and Will Marchetti star in Joe DiPietro's old-fashioned love story about two desperately lonely geezers with lots of emotional baggage and a dog named Peaches who looks like a rat. Kitty Winn scores as Ralph's nagging sister while Joshua Jeremiah uses his lush operatic baritone to illustrate Ralph's love of Italian opera and reenact his audition, nearly 60 years ago, for the Metropolitan Opera
